

Your Partner for Components, Materials & Services

MedNet invests in a sustainable future and becomes climate neutral in 2022

CO<sub>2</sub> emissions are calculated and compensated in accordance with the international Greenhouse Gas Protocol corporate standard.

Muenster, June 2022 – MedNet GmbH, a supplier and service provider for the medical technology industry, has been certified a climate-neutral company by independent certifying organisation Climate Extender. An interdisciplinary project team determined the CO<sub>2</sub> footprint at MedNet with the objective to permanently reduce operational emissions. The company will continue to closely monitor the impact of its operations including factors such as energy and water consumption, but also the commuting behavior of its 50 employees, which will be annually compensated.

Managing Director Ole Stein emphasizes that this is an important step towards the future for the company, which was founded back in 1990: "Climate protection is not only a trend, but is part of the responsibility of every company. We are proud to make a contribution to climate protection and also see it as a competitive advantage that we can pass on as added value not only to our customers but also to our employees."

To compensate emissions, MedNet has invested in designated climate protection projects: to protect the rainforest in the Amazon, wildlife and forests in various protected areas in Zimbabwe, and to generate renewable energy with a run-of-river hydro-electric power plant in Indonesia. All projects support the UN's climate targets for sustainable reduction of greenhouse gases. The MedNet project team is now working on new measures to improve the CO<sub>2</sub> balance. These range from active supplier management to job bikes for employees.

About MedNet

Since 1990 MedNet GmbH has been a competent service provider and supplier for the medical device and pharmaceutical industry. As a European company with headquarters in Germany it offers a wide portfolio in standard components from well-known manufacturers as well as own product lines for interventional radiology, infusion technology and others.

Your Partner for Components, Materials & Services

Furthermore MedNet provides a worldwide well established network for medical materials and manufacturing providers offering distribution and marketing channels to the European market. With this extensive portfolio MedNet can provide various and customised solutions for medical device manufacturers from one hand. MedNet is ISO 13485 certified.